Sparta to Play Naval Eleven In Night Game

By MURVIN O. PATRICKS

Spartan football fans can be partly pacified today, since it is now certain that San Jose State college will play at least eight games this season.

Spartan officials announced yesterday that SJS will play the San Diego Naval Training Center football team on Saturday, Nov. 3, instead of the University of Nevada. The contest is tentatively set as a night game.

The San Diego eleven, coached by Tay Brown, former Compton college mentor, is expected to be a strong team. Coach Brown will choose his team from a spring turnout of 200 candidates.

San Jose State officials have been attempting to schedule games with Texas A&M and Arizona State at Tempe. Negotiations with Texas were dropped completely, however, after the Southern eleven announced that they had scheduled a game with another Texas team, filling their schedule.

Negotiations with Arizona State have not been completely dropped, however, the Spartans cannot arrange a game for Oct. 6 as previously hoped. Arizona had expressed willingness to play SJS on the October date, but Spartan officials were unable to take advantage of the opportunity because of a previous commitment with Fresno State college. Spartan officials are still attempting to schedule an Arizona State-San Jose State contest for later in the season.

Sparta was faced with a seven-game schedule last Monday, after the University of Nevada's Board of Regents announced that the school would discontinue football for an unknown length of time. The Spartans were originally slated to play Nevada at Reno on Nov. 3.

Can't Cash Checks

Checks will not be cashed in the Graduate Manager's office during the four week session, Miss De Maria, office secretary, said yesterday.

Miss De Maria explained that it takes several weeks for a bad check to be returned to the college. The short session does not allow enough time to return the check to the student in such cases.

English Dept. Will Introduce Foreign Masterpiece Classes

Classes on foreign literary masterpieces will be taught for the first time in the English department by Modern Language department faculty members during the 1951-52 school year, according to Dr. Raymond Barry, English department head.

Courses in French and German literary masterpieces will be given fall quarter, Dr. Barry said. Spanish literary masterpieces will not be taught until winter quarter because translations are not available yet, he explained. The new classes will be offered to upper division students, Dr. Barry said. There are no prerequisites for the course.

Mr. Wesley Goddard will teach the French masterpieces course; Dr. Theodore Verhaaren, the German literature course; and Dr. William Moellering, the Spanish course, Dr. Barry stated.

Dr. Roberta Holloway, of the English department, will teach a course on Russian novels, he explained.

James C. DeVoss, Dean of Men Stanley C. Benz, Dean of Women Helen Dimmick, Dean of Students Joe H. West, Admissions Officer Miss Viola Palmer and Mrs. Izetta Pritchard, director of housing.

Although 35 students participated in the ceremonies, some will complete graduation requirements at the end of the four week session. Diplomas were given to Jackson Boyd Allcorn, Frances Lee Boden, Robert Lee Barnes, Gertrude Griffin Bobb, Llewellyn Price Buckles, Olympia Cline, Robin Jackson Crizer, Evelyn Lindsay DeLong, Wilma Pearl Duffie, Martha K. Field, Wanda Bishop Galletti, Ruby L. Hawley, Wallace Stanley High, James S. Howie, Edna Helen Hooper, Robert Alfred Klahn, Anna Ries Kohner, Kathryn McMillan, George Hayes Ramsey.

Red Tie Saga: Swagert Gets Rope Necktie

By JEANNINE SHORT

The shadow of a hangman's noose is dangling over Dr. Laird Swagert, associate professor of political science, and all because he took a defiant stand against classroom disapproval of his red tie.

Dr. Swagert's tie has claimed the attention of his students. As Summer Session passed, the color of his necktie never changed.

Then one morning, as the professor left for class, he found a mysterious package on his doorstep. Unwrapping it, he found a colorful forest green tie and a verse—unsigned—that said:

A red tie never dies,
but it may fade away.
Would you like to light our eyes
by wearing this someday?

Please understand, we don't demand,
nor do we complain—
Red looks good on one who's tanned,
But with green—life's spice you'll gain!

"After the hint about variety being the spice of life, and a gift of a good-looking tie, I decided the least I could do was wear it," said Dr. Swagert.

A week later Dr. Swagert stumbled over another of the anonymous boxes on his front steps. Tucked carefully in the folds of the tissue paper was a truly awesome tie—chartreuse! The verse, ribbing the professor, quipped:

I went uptown to buy a tie.
The colors almost made me die!
I bought this here one finally,
Because it had this guarantee:
'Dug-out Doug and red agree, here is a tie you can really see!"

"Boy, it was terrific," declared Swagert. "I haven't worn that one yet. That shade of yellow has to be worn on a cloudy day."

Dr. Swagert, knowing that all bad things are supposed to come in threes, was expecting a third tie, so he let his secretary in on the secret and told her that if a package came to his office she could open it. One came.

"The third bundle was a tie, all right, but not the usual style," revealed the professor. "It was a short length of rope, tied rather clumsily as a hangman's noose! This time there was no message. I guess they didn't think one was necessary."

Undaunted Dr. Swagert has gone back to red ties. As he explained, "I'm not worried. It's not my neck size."

Library Schedule

Library hours for the four-week session will be from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, according to Miss Joyce Backus, head librarian. The library will be closed Saturdays and Sundays.

Reserve books will be handled in reading rooms of the main library.

Four Week Registration Ends Today at 4 O'clock

Registration, which commences at 8 a.m. for the four-week Summer Session, must be completed by 4 p.m. today, according to Mr. C. W. Quinley, acting registrar. Mr. Quinley explained that all registration booklets and fees must be handed in at the Reserve bookroom by closing time, and that only a few exceptions will be made to the no late registration rule.

Students may obtain class schedules at the Summer Session office, Room 1. Registration booklets may be obtained at the Reserve Bookroom where there is a faculty member from each department on hand to register and counsel students.

Students need not have applied for registration for the coming short session, Mr. Quinley added, and students now enrolled in the six and 10 week sessions may add classes.

There is a $5 fee for each unit, and a total of six units may be taken. Fundamentals classes, although they do not give unit credit, will cost the same as a one unit class.

Graduating seniors may obtain their diplomas in the Registrar's office today. Students desiring to have their grades from the six week session mailed to them are advised to address an envelope at the desk by the Registrar's office today, and they will be sent Thursday evening. Others may pick up their grades at the office next Friday, Mr. Quinley said.

'Music Under the Stars' Plays Before Overflow Audience in Inner Quad

By MIKE ALAIMO

Before an overflow audience in the southwest corner of the Main Quad, the Summer Session orchestra and chorus, under the direction of Dr. Lyle W. Downey, successfully presented "Music Under the Stars" Tuesday evening.

All 400 seats were occupied before the 7 o'clock "curtain" and late-comers were forced to sit on the grass or view the outdoor concert through the surrounding corridor arches.

Despite the bad acoustics of the Quad, "HMS Pinafore" was well presented by Mr. Gus C. Lease's well trained soloists and chorus, accompanied by the orchestra. Persons sitting in the rear of the Quad had difficulty hearing what was being played or sung.

The program opened with Berlioz's "Waverly Overture" and "Tales From the Vienna Woods" by Johann Strauss.

Soloists were Arthur Huff as Sir Joseph Porter; Raymond John-

Varied Interests Demand Time Of the Versatile Mr. Spriggs

By JOY ASPINWALL

Administrator, ranger, teacher, rock and mineral collector, master of ceremonies, and carpenter could describe the duties of six people but instead they represent the vocations and avocations of Mr. James L. Spriggs, visiting science instructor.

A high school administrator for 24 years, Mr. Spriggs retired in 1948 as principal of Mariposa high school. He still instructs science at that school, however, "I like to teach," he explained.

Mr. Spriggs was a ranger at Yosemite national park for five years during the war. In charge of tourist camps, he served as master of ceremonies and song leader for Camp 14. "I am what you might call a 'jack-of-all-trades'," Mr. Spriggs joked.

Builds House Trailers

During the summer of 1949, Mr. Spriggs traveled through the western states in his self-designed house trailer. "One of my hobbies is building house trailers," he said. "I gain a great deal of pleasure from designing and constructing them. I have a complete wood-working shop."

A collector of several thousand rock and mineral specimens, Mr. Spriggs is teaching courses in California rocks and minerals, everyday physics, and the citizens' science during the six week session.

Mr. Spriggs' collection of rocks and minerals includes such semi-precious gems as amethyst, opal, jasper, and tourmaline. The most expensive item in his collection is a piece of tourmaline worth $25.

It is not primarily a collection of semi-precious stones the collector said but one to be used for classroom illustration. "I have gathered most of these samples as a hobby," he explained.

Some of Mr. Spriggs' more interesting pieces include copper crystal and an unusual "half-breed", a copper and silver nugget.

Works with Students

Mr. Spriggs has aided students of his Rocks and Minerals in California class in collecting rocks and minerals for classroom display. He has supervised three field trips and given them rock and mineral samples from the Science building basement. One student in the class has amassed 115 samples, he said.

The class visited the old Guadalupe mercury mine. The mine is not in operation now, Mr. Spriggs said, but men are trying to work over the old mercury still. The class also made field trips to Permanente and the Oak Hill area where they visited a quarry and another old mercury mine.

Mr. Spriggs obtained his B.S. from Oregon State college and his M.A. from the University of California. He also has done graduate work at Stanford university, Whitman college and Oregon State college.

Born in Illinois, Mr. Spriggs now lives at the southern end of the Mother Lode in Mariposa. "My home overlooks the town and I can view $1,000,000 worth of scenery from every window in my house," he said.

Vets May Receive Checks Late This Month -- Graves

It will not be possible to get subsistence allowance checks to all Summer Session veteran-students by Aug. 1, according to Miss Edith Graves of the Veterans office.

"It is believed, however," Miss Graves said, "that enrollment papers for the majority of the veterans enrolled will be processed by Aug. 15, and subsistence allowance payments made to the veterans by the first of September."

Apply by Sept. 15 For Re-admission

San Jose State college students who were not enrolled in the 1951 spring quarter must apply for re-admission by Sept. 15 if they wish to return this fall, according to Miss Viola Palmer, dean of admissions.

Spring quarter graduates who wish to return for graduate work must apply for the graduate division, Miss Palmer said.
